riseshmart.

introduction

This privacy notice applies to the processing of personal data we process about you when we provide our Services to you: outplacement, coaching, outplacement, internal mobility, career services, trajectory guidance on demand of VDAB, Actiris or Forem (Employability) including when you visit our website, our mobile app, or other IT-tools/applications.

Your privacy and the security of your personal data is important to Randstad Risesmart and the rest of the Randstad Group companies. We are responsible for ensuring that all personal data entrusted to us is processed in accordance with applicable data protection legislation.

This notice explains who we are, for what purposes we may use your personal data, how we handle it, to whom we may disclose it (like service providers and/or other Randstad Group Companies), where it may be transferred to or accessible from, and what your rights are.

about Randstad Risesmart

Randstad RiseSmart, division of Randstad HR Solutions NV (referred to in this notice as: "we" or "us" or "Risesmart"), will process your personal data in accordance with this data protection notice (such personal data sometimes also referred to as "information").

Except as otherwise set out below, Risesmart is the controller of the personal data ('controller' within the meaning of applicable data protection legislation).

When VDAB, Actiris, or Forem commissions RiseSmart to guide you toward employment, we gain access to your personal data for the provision of our services. We will collect and use this data on behalf of VDAB, Actiris, or Forem. Consequently, RiseSmart does not act as the data controller for the processing of your personal data, and you will primarily have to direct any questions concerning your personal data to VDAB, Actiris, or Forem.

AI technologies

our use of innovative AI technologies for Risesmart services

Our ultimate goal is to support people and organizations in realizing their true potential. We believe that the best way to achieve that goal is by combining our passion for people with the power of today's AI technologies. By AI technologies we mean technologies that help us digitize and enhance a variety of our processes. For example, we use AI to provide you with easy summaries of our career-related content, or to support you in practicing interviews.

As part of the broader recruitment process, HR technologies enable us to connect participants with our consultants faster. This, in turn, allows our consultants to better support participants in exploring vacancies and to deliver the right participants to our clients more quickly. HR technologies also enable our consultants to find people based not only on the positions they are eligible for, but also on positions they are interested in.

responsible use of AI technologies

Randstad is committed to the ethical and responsible use of innovative AI technologies (you can read our AI principles here). Randstad does not use these technologies as a substitute for humans or human interaction in any part of its processes. Instead, our use of AI technologies is intended to make interactions with clients and participants more personal, relevant and meaningful.

How long we keep your personal data

As a general rule, we will not keep your personal data for longer than necessary. When your personal data is no longer necessary for the purpose for which it was being processed, we will delete or otherwise deidentify or mask it.

We keep personal data once you have completed your program and for as long as you continue logging in to our website or mobile app. If you haven't logged in for two years and that you don't respond to our invitation to log back in, we will delete or otherwise mask personal data associated with your profile and your program (like your identification details, assessment results, CVs or resumes ...).

We will also keep your personal data longer if necessary in connection with any actual or potential dispute (e.g. we need this personal data to establish or defend legal claims), in which case we will keep your personal data until the end of such dispute; and/or for us to comply with any legal or regulatory obligation (e.g. for regulatory requirements concerning audits), in which case we will keep your personal data for as long as required by that obligation.

with whom we share your personal data

We may share your personal data with:

Randstad Group Entities:

- with other entities of the Randstad group of companies. We are part of a multinational group of companies and sometimes we may share personal data with other Randstad groups of companies for the purposes of efficient management of business, compliance with legal and regulatory requirements and to provide our Services to you and to our clients (e.g. by providing your profile in order to receive more job offers). For an overview of these entities, click here.

Our "partner for talent" strategy focuses on building long-term relationships with clients and talents, understanding their unique challenges, and delivering tailored solutions to help them thrive in a dynamic global talent market. We leverage data, technology, and our deep industry expertise to connect the right talent with the right opportunities.

External partners for service delivery:

- with Randstad clients. Within the scope of our Services. Following consultation with you, we can, for example, forward your profile and CV to our clients to help you find a new job as part of your outplacement or trajectory guidance programme
- with Risesmart coaches. Some of our coaches support our Services on an independent or freelance basis.
- with third party providers of IT-related services (e.g. we use an external provider to support our IT-infrastructure; e.g. an important part of our software and databases sit in a cloud-environment which is operated by a third party service provider).
- with providers of professional services (e.g. to our auditors, our tax advisors, our legal advisors).

Public and Regulatory Authorities:

- with public authorities (e.g. pursuant to applicable law we may need to disclose personal data to tax authorities).
- with law enforcement authorities, courts and regulatory authorities (e.g. as part of a criminal investigation police services may require us to disclose personal data to them).

We may also disclose your personal data to third parties:

- in the event that we sell or buy any business or assets, in which case we may disclose your personal data to the prospective seller or buyer of such business or assets; or
- if all or a substantial part of our assets are acquired by a third party, in which case the personal data that we hold about you may be one of the transferred assets.

When we share your personal data as described above, such personal data may be transferred both within and outside the European Economic Area (EEA).

In the event that we transfer your personal data internationally, we will only do so in line with applicable law, and we will require that there is an adequate level of protection for your personal data, and that appropriate security measures are in place.

Your personal data may be transferred from countries located within the EEA to countries located outside of the EEA (such as the United States). In such cases, we will require that the following safeguards are observed:

- The laws of the country to which your personal data is transferred ensure an adequate level of data protection. Click here for the list of non-EEA countries that, according to the European Commission, provide an adequate level of data protection; or
- The transfer is subject to standard data protection clauses approved by the European Commission. More information about those data protection clauses is available here; or
- Any other applicable appropriate safeguards under article 46 of the EU General Data Protection Regulation (2016/679).

For more information about the safeguards that we have implemented to protect your personal data internationally, please contact us at [local market to provide their point of contact].

how we will protect your personal data

We have technical and organizational security measures in place to protect your personal data from being accidentally lost, used, altered, destructed, disclosed or accessed in an unauthorized way. We limit access to your personal data to those who have a genuine business need to know it. Those processing your personal data are governed by Randstad's rules for information and IT security, data protection and other internal regulations and guidelines applicable to the processing of personal data.

While we have measures in place to protect your personal data, it is important for you to understand that 100% complete security cannot be guaranteed. Accordingly, we have procedures in place to deal with data security incidents and to comply with legal requirements applicable to the detection, handling and notification of personal data breaches.

your data protection rights

While your specific data protection rights will depend on applicable data protection law, they may include the following:

Rights	What does this mean?
1. Right to be informed	You have the right to be provided with clear, transparent and easily understandable information about how we use your personal data and your rights. This is why we are providing you with the information in this notice.
2. Right of access	You have the right to access the personal data we keep about you – this is because we want you to be aware of the personal data we have about you and to enable you to verify whether we process your personal data in accordance with applicable data protection laws and regulations.
3. Right to rectification	If your personal data is inaccurate or incomplete, you have the right to request the rectification of your personal data.
4. Right to erasure	This is also known as ‘the right to be forgotten’ and, in simple terms, enables you to request the deletion or removal of your personal data where there is no compelling reason for us to keep it. This is not a general right to erasure, there are exceptions.
5. Right to restrict processing	You have rights to ‘block’ or suppress further use of your personal data in certain circumstances. When processing is restricted, we can still store your personal data, but may not use it further. We keep lists of people who have asked for further use of their personal data to be ‘blocked’ to make sure the restriction is respected in future.
6. Right to data portability	You have the right to obtain and reuse your personal data in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format in certain circumstances. In addition, where certain conditions apply, you have the right to have such personal data transferred directly to a third party.
7. Right to object to processing	You have the right to object to certain types of processing, in certain circumstances. In particular, the right to object to the processing of your personal data based on our legitimate interests or on public interest grounds; the right to object to processing for direct marketing purposes (including profiling); the right to object to the use of your personal data for scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes in certain circumstances.
8. Right to withdraw consent	If our processing of your personal data is based specifically on your consent, you have the right to withdraw that consent at any time.

You can exercise your rights by sending an email to privacy@randstadrisemart.be.

We may ask you for proof of identity to ensure that we are not sharing your personal data with anyone else but yourself.

Please be aware that, in particular cases (for instance, due to legal requirements) we may not be able to make your request effective.

You have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory data protection authority: Gegevensbeschermingsautoriteit (GBA), Drukpersstraat 35, 1000 Brussel, contact@apd-gba.be
